Foreign Intelligence. Bombay, Nov. 8 .- General Lord Napier of Magdala, Sir Philip E. Woodhouse, Governor of Bom-bay, Hon. Sir M. R. Westroph, Chief Justice, and many others, including the civil, military and municipal authorities, accompanied by seventy sative Princes and Chiefs, welcomed the Prince of Wales on his landing from the Serapis. After feaving the royal barge at the dock yard, the municipality of Bombay presented him with an appropriate address of welcome. He replied briefly, after which he and his suite were escorted to the Government House. Troops and police preserved order while the long procession moved through the streets. There were over 200,000 spectators in the streets. The reception was of the most enthusiastic description, and was participated in alike by Europeans and natives. The city was splendidly decorated, and there were no fewer than ght triumphal arches on the line of march. The apartments to be occupied by His Royal Highness e most pleasantly situated in the Government House. A grand levee will be given there to night. It is expected that while here the Prince will present colors to the First Native Infantry, better known as the Marine Battalion, the oldest corps in greater scale. The British flying squadron is in

A remarkable escape from burial alive happened in the town of Bradford, New Hampshire, a few days since. The facts of the case are as follows: A lady in the above town had been sick for some time, and to all appearance had died, and arrangements were accordingly made for the funeral to take place on the third day after her supposed de-cease. The preparations for burial had progressed so far that on the day of the funeral the lady was was thought of it, as it was supposed to be the result of muscular contraction, and the arrangements for burial were all completed when the supposed corpse astonished the attendants by asking to be placed on her side. The house of mourning was suddenly turned into one of joy, and at last ac-counts the lady was doing finely, with every prospect of a complete recovery.

A RADICAL CHANGE. - Marriage quite frequently makes a radical change in the contracting parties. A courting young man finds one of his greatest pleasures in accompanying his girl to church of a Sunday evening, or if denied that enjoyment, he gladly accepts the position of waiter on the outside of the tabernacal until the services closes. The wether does not affect him. He will wait as patiently in the driving sleet as in the shimmering moonlight, and be as oblivious to the keen cold of Winter as to the balmy air of Summer. He may be drenched through to the skin or chilled to the bone, but he notices neither. After marriage she thinks herself fortunate of a Sunday evening if she can secure the company of a neighbor going the same way, and reach home so as to the devoted lover to inquire if he is going to bed, or if he is going to sleep on that lounge all night.

she didn't seem to mind it, and firmly declared her husband's innocence. When the day of trial arrived she sat in Court beside him, and moved the jury to tears by arranging a fifty-cent bouquet in the button-hole of his coat. The case was at called. There were thirty or forty of them; but before half a dozen had testified, a mighty change came over the face of the wife, and, getting right up and addressing her remarks to the bench, she

"See here, Judge; I'm satisfied, if you are. Don't mind me, Judge, get even. Just hold on to him till called for, and if enny woman wants him, he's her'n, and no questions asked." Then, turning to her husband, and snatching the floral tokens from his button-hole, she bitterly exclaim-

It was of such aggressive character that its publication here will possibly be prohibited. He made an attack upon ex-President Thiers and the Orleanists, accusing them of having blocked up all avenues to power. He censured President McMahon, and said since the 24th of May, 1873, when the Marshal was chosen President he had incurred heavy responsibilities. M. Rouher declared that the Revisionary clause of the Constitution remained intact. Bonapartists, be said, are in favor of universal suffrage; they are content to appeal to the people in order to give an

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 .- A Washington special says nformation received from New York is to the effect that the recent reduction of .54 of a cent per pound as drawback on refined sugars exported, has completely stopped the exportation of refined sugars from the United States. The refineries claim that some strange influence must have been exerted to effect the reduction, because they heard from European sugar merchants a week before it took place, that a reduction was to be made, while no American refiner was consulted on the subject perts. They regard the Secretary's action as basty. while he, on the other hand, says that is merely experimental and by no means conclusive. In view of the distress likely to be occasioned by this change and the fact that the Canadians have OAK AND HICKORY RIMS already begun to absorb our immense sugar export trade, the Secretary of the Treasury has insisted that the Collector of the Port of New York shall proceed without delay to organize a commission of experts for the purpose of making tests that will how with exactness the loss of weight on raw sugar in the process of refining.
